I. RISK FACTORS

Repsol's operations and results are subject to risks resulting from changes in competitive, economic, political, legal, regulatory, social, industrial, business and financial conditions, which investors should take into account and which are discussed below. Any of these risks could have a negative impact on the activities, operating results and financial position of the Repsol Group.

Furthermore, future risk factors, either unknown or not considered relevant by the Repsol Group at present, could also negatively affect the company's businesses, results, and financial situation.

1. STRATEGIC & OPERATIONAL RISK FACTORS

Uncertainty of the current economic context

Global economic growth will remain weak. The latest forecasts of the International Monetary Fund (IMF WEO April 2016), estimate global expansion in 2015 of around 3.1%, below the 3.4% growth recorded in 2014, despite the fact that the IMF forecasts growth recovery in 2016, to rates of 3.2%. Although advanced economies are experiencing stable growth, this is still moderate, whereas emerging economies are still suffering the consequences of the drop in prices and raw materials, the universal effects of the deceleration of the Chinese economy and the normalisation of the monetary policy in the USA. In turn, these factors support the risk of low inflation for a prolonged period.

From a financial perspective, the risks to the global economy are mainly centred on China and the antagonism between the economic policies of the two main central banks. Since June 2015, the risk of a more severe deceleration in China and potential greater depreciation of its currency have increased, which has increased the instability of the global financial markets. On the other hand, whereas the Federal Reserve (FED) has started the monetary policy normalisation process, both the European Central Bank (ECB) and the Bank of Japan (BoJ) continue with an expansionary monetary policy. On the one hand, this divergence in monetary policies drives dollar appreciation, putting the solvency of many governments and companies with debts in said currency at risk and, on the other hand, the fact that the Euro and the yen have negative interest rate curves affects the bank intermediation margin, which is already in a delicate position per se, owing to the increase in doubtful debt, in certain cases related to exposure to the energy and raw materials sector.

Beyond the geopolitical risks, the threat of terrorist acts, like the events in Paris and Belgium, and the refugee crisis, the impact that the political instability in Europe may have on the markets is concerning. The absence of agreement to allow the election of a government in Spain and the UK referendum to leave the European Union, to be held in June 2016, are important issues that represent a risk factor for the economy.

In the period elapsed so far in 2016, the oversupply of the oil market has driven the drop in crude oil prices since the second half of 2014. This environment of low prices has boosted demand and, in turn, slowed growth in non-OPEC supply over the course of 2015. However, the imbalance of the oil market continues owing to the fact that the supply of certain non-OPEC countries stood up better than expected in this price context and, above all, the OPEC (Organisation of the Petroleum Exporting Countries) production has risen in 2015 and the period elapsed so far in 2016. The cartel has been producing above the market requirements since 2015, offsetting all the non-OPEC supply and demand adjustments.

The analysts do not discount anymore cuts in OPEC crude oil production in their forecasts for 2016, therefore the market adjustment is expected to come mainly from sustained growth in demand and major corrections in non-OPEC supply. The main negative risk factors for market adjustment and as a result, for the 2016 central price scenario are: (i) A more limited demand than expected, particularly in emerging markets; (ii) A more flexible non-OPEC supply at lower prices than expected; and (iii) A better than expected recovery of production in Iran and Libya, or another spike in Iraqi production. Recent conversations between the main exporting countries for the freezing of production could help to rebalance the market earlier than expected.

Finally, the economic-financial situation could have a negative impact on third parties with whom Repsol does or could do business. Any of the factors described above, whether in isolation or in combination with each other, could have an adverse effect on Repsol's financial situation, businesses or results from Repsol's operations.

Fluctuations in international prices of crude and reference products and in demand owing to factors beyond Repsol's control

World oil prices have fluctuated widely over the last ten years and are driven by international supply and demand factors over which Repsol has no control.

International product prices are influenced by the price of oil and the demand for products. Therefore, international prices of crude oil and products affect the refining margin. International oil prices and demand for crude oil may also fluctuate significantly during economic cycles.

Reductions in oil prices negatively affect Repsol's profitability, the value of its assets and its plans for capital investment, which may be affected as the result of delay, renegotiation or cancellation of projects. Any significant drop in capital investment could have an adverse effect on Repsol's ability to replace its crude oil reserves.

Regulatory and tax framework of Repsol's operations

The oil industry is subject to extensive regulation and intervention by governments in Upstream activities such as the award of exploration and production interests, the imposition of specific drilling and exploration obligations, restrictions on production, price controls, required divestments of assets, foreign currency controls, and the development and nationalisation, expropriation or cancellation of contractual rights.

Likewise, in Downstream, oil refining and petrochemical activities, in general, are subject to exhaustive government regulation and intervention in matters such as safety and environmental controls.

Furthermore, the energy sector, particularly the oil industry, is subject to a singular fiscal framework. In the Upstream activities there are often specific taxes on profit and production, and in regard to the activities of Downstream, the existence of taxes on consumption products is also common.

Repsol cannot predict changes to such laws or regulations or their interpretation, or the implementation of certain policies. Any such changes could have an adverse impact on the business, results and financial position.

Repsol is subject to extensive environmental and safety legislations and risks

Repsol is subject to a great variety of environmental and safety regulations in all countries where it operates. These regulate, among other matters affecting Repsol's operations, environmental quality standards for products, air emissions and climate change, energy efficiency, extraction technologies, water discharges, remediation of soil and groundwater and the generation, storage, transportation, treatment and final disposal of waste materials.

Specifically, considering the importance of Climate Change, Repsol faces the exposure to possible changes in the greenhouse gas emissions regulatory framework as a result of its industrial activities and associated to the use of its products. In this regard, among other regulatory changes in climate-related matters, for example, in Europe the 2030 energy and climate package associated to a number of directives was adopted, such as the Energy Efficiency Directive, and the reform of the Emission Trading Scheme. In the US, regulation related to the national methane emissions plan was approved, and in Canada, the Alberta state implemented climate legislation.

Elsewhere, in the wake of the Talisman Energy Inc. (“Talisman”) acquisition (current Repsol Oil & Gas Canada Inc.), Repsol has increased its activity in non-conventional oil and gas resources. From an environmental standpoint, concern over the environmental impact of exploring for and producing this type of resources could prompt governments and authorities to approve new regulations or impose new requirements on their development. If so, it could have an adverse impact on the Company.

Repsol cannot predict the changes in the environmental and safety regulations nor their interpretation or whether certain policies will be implemented. Any regulatory change could have a negative impact on the activities, results of operations and financial position of the Repsol Group.

2. OPERATING RISKS RELATED TO REPSOL ACTIVITIES

Operating risks related to exploration and exploitation of oil and gas (Upstream) and reliance on the cost-effective acquisition or discovery of, and, thereafter, development of new oil and gas reserves

Oil and gas exploration and production activities are subject to particular risks, some of which are beyond the control of Repsol. These activities are exposed to production, equipment and transportation risks, mistakes or inefficiencies in operations management and purchasing processes, natural hazards and other uncertainties relating to the physical characteristics of oil and natural gas fields and their dismantling. Furthermore, oil and gas exploration and development projects are complex in terms of their scale and by their very nature are susceptible to delays in execution and cost overruns with respect to initially-approved budgets. In addition to this, some of the Group’s development projects are located in deep waters, mature areas and other difficult environments, such as the Gulf of Mexico, Alaska, the North Sea, Brazil and the Amazon rainforest, or in complex oilfields, which could aggravate these risks further. It should also be considered that transportation of oil products, by any means, always has inherent risks: during road, rail or sea transport, or by pipeline, oil and other hazardous substances could leak. This is a significant risk due to the potential impact a spill could have on the environment and on people, especially considering the high volume of products that can be carried at any one time. Should these risks materialise, Repsol may suffer major losses, interruptions to its operations and harm to its reputation.

Moreover, Repsol must replace depleted oil and gas reserves with new proven reserves in a cost-effective way that enables subsequent production to be economically viable. Repsol’s ability to acquire or discover new reserves is, however, subject to a number of risks. For example, drilling may involve negative results, not only with respect to dry wells, but also with respect to wells that are productive but do not produce sufficient net revenues to return a profit after drilling, operating and other costs are taken into account. In addition, Repsol generally faces intense competition in bidding for exploratory blocks, in particular those blocks offering the most attractive potential reserves. Such competition may result in Repsol's failing to obtain the desirable blocks, or acquiring them at a higher price, which could render subsequent production economically unviable.

If Repsol fails to acquire or discover, and, thereafter, develop new oil and gas reserves in a cost-effective manner, or if any of the aforementioned risks were to materialise, its business, financial position and results of operations could be adversely affected.

Industrial businesses and marketing of oil products (Downstream)

The Refining, Chemical, Trading, and Production, and Distribution activities related to oil derivative products and LPG are exposed to the risk inherent to their activities, and are related to the products' specific characteristics (flammability and toxicity), their use (including that of clients), emissions resulting from the production process (such as greenhouse gas effects), as well as the materials and waste used (dangerous waste, as well as water and energy management), which might impact health, safety, and the environment. Repsol's industrial assets (refineries, regassing plants, warehouses, ports, ducts, sea vessels, cistern trucks, service stations, etc.) are exposed to accidents such as fire, explosions, leaks of toxic products, as well as large-scale contaminating environmental incidents. Accidents may cause death and injury to employees, contractors, residents in surrounding areas, as well as damage to the assets and property owned by Repsol as well as third parties.

Downstream activities take place in a highly competitive environment. Refining and commercialization margins may be affected by a number of factors, such as low demand arising from the impaired economy in the countries in which it operates, the high price of crude oil and other raw materials, the trends of production-related energy costs and other commodities, excess refining capacity in Europe, and the growing competition from refineries in areas such as Russia, the Middle East, East Asia, and the US, whose production costs are lower. Commercial businesses compete with international hydrocarbons industry operators as well as with other non-oil entities (supermarket chains as well as other commercial operators) to acquire or open Service Stations. Repsol Service Stations mainly compete based on price, service, and the availability of non-oil products.

If any of these risks were to materialise, Repsol's activity, results of operations and financial position could be significantly and adversely affected.

Location of reserves

Part of Repsol's oil and gas reserves are located in countries that are or could be economically or politically unstable. Section II.E), "Information on oil and gas exploration and production activities at 31 December 2015 (unaudited information)", included further below in this Registration Document, contains information on the Group's proven reserves and their distribution by geographic region.

Reserves in these areas as well as related production operations may be exposed to risks, including increases in taxes and royalties, the establishment of limits on production and export volumes, the compulsory renegotiation or cancellation of contracts, the nationalisation or denationalisation of assets, changes in local government regimes and policies, changes in business customs and practices, payment delays, currency exchange restrictions and losses and impairment of operations due to the attacks of armed groups. In addition, political changes may lead to changes in the business environment. Economic downturns, political instability or civil disturbances may disrupt the supply chain or limit sales in the markets affected by such events.

If any of the aforementioned risks were to materialise, it could have an adverse impact on Repsol's business, financial position and results of operations.

Oil and gas reserve estimates

To estimate proved and unproved oil and gas reserves, Repsol uses the criteria established by the “SPE/WPC/AAPG/SPEE Petroleum Resources Management System”, commonly referred to by its acronym, SPE-PRMS (SPE standing for the Society of Petroleum Engineers).

The accuracy of these estimates depends on a number of different factors, assumptions and variables, such as exploration and development activities including drilling, testing and production. After the date of the estimate, the results of activities may entail substantial upward or downward corrections based on the quality of available geological, technical and economic data used and its interpretation and valuation. Moreover, the production performance of reservoirs and recovery rates, depend significantly on available technologies as well as Repsol’s ability to implement them.

As a result of the foregoing, measures of reserves are not precise and are subject to revision. The estimate of proved and unproved reserves of oil and gas will also be subject to correction due errors in the implementation and/or changes of the standards published. Any downward revision in estimated quantities of proven reserves could adversely impact the results of operations of the Repsol Group, leading to increased depreciation, depletion and amortization charges and/or impairment charges, which would reduce net income and shareholders’ equity.

Projects and operations developed through joint ventures and partnerships

Many of the Repsol Group’s projects and operations are conducted through joint ventures and associated companies. In those cases in which Repsol does not act as the operator, its ability to control and influence the performance and management of the operations and to identify and manage related risks is limited. Additionally, there is a possibility that if any of Repsol’s partners or members of a joint venture or associated company fails to comply with their financial obligations or incur any another breach, that could affect the viability of the whole project and therefore have a negative impact on the activities, results of operations and financial position of the Repsol Group.

Repsol may engage in acquisitions, investments and disposals as part of its strategy

As part of Repsol’s strategy, Repsol may engage in acquisitions, investments and disposals of interests. There can be no assurance that Repsol will identify suitable acquisition opportunities, obtain the financing necessary to complete and support such acquisitions or investments, acquire businesses on satisfactory terms, or that any acquired business will prove to be profitable. In addition, acquisitions and investments involve a number of risks, including possible adverse effects on Repsol’s operating result, risks associated with unanticipated events or liabilities relating to the acquired assets or businesses which may not have been disclosed during due diligence investigations, difficulties in the assimilation of the acquired operations, technologies, systems, services and products, and risks arising from contractual conditions that are triggered by a change of control of an acquired company.

Any failure to successfully integrate such acquisitions could have a material adverse effect upon Repsol’s business, results of operations or financial position. Any disposal of interest may also adversely affect Repsol’s financial condition, if such disposal results in a loss.

On May 8, 2015, Repsol closed the acquisition of 100% of Talisman, a Canadian company devoted to oil and gas exploration and production activities. As in any business combination, Repsol's ability to reach the strategic benefits expected from the acquisition will depend on its ability to integrate Talisman's equipment, processes and procedures and maintain existing relationships with its customers and partners.

Results for Talisman in the last two years have been negative, mainly as a result of the reorganisation of assets and the provision for future costs, including those related to its joint ventures. In addition, its businesses are subject to the risks inherent in the oil business and other individuals, and there may even still be unknown risks (e.g., tax, legal or environmental). Should any of the risks identified occur after the takeover of Talisman, a negative impact could occur on operations, results or the financial position of the Repsol Group.

Repsol's current insurance coverage for all the operational risks may not be sufficient

Repsol, in line with industry practice, holds insurance coverage against certain risks inherent in the oil and gas industry. Insurance coverage is subject to deductibles and limits that in certain cases may be materially exceeded by the losses and/or liabilities incurred. In addition, Repsol's insurance policies contain exclusions that could leave the Group with limited coverage in certain circumstances or, even, compensations may be total or partially uncollectible in case of insurers' insolvency. Furthermore, Repsol may not be able to maintain adequate insurance at rates or on terms considered reasonable or acceptable, or may not be able to obtain insurance against certain risks that could materialise in the future. If Repsol were to experience an incident against which it is not insured, or the costs of which materially exceed its coverage, it could have an adverse effect on its business, financial position and results of operations.

Repsol's natural gas operations are subject to particular operational and market risks

Natural gas prices tend to vary between the different regions in which Repsol operates as a result of significantly different supply, demand and regulatory circumstances, and such prices may be lower than prevailing prices in other regions of the world. In addition, excess supply conditions that exist in some regions cannot be utilised in other regions due to a lack of infrastructure and difficulties in transporting natural gas.

In addition, Repsol has entered into long-term contracts to purchase and supply natural gas in various parts of the world. These contracts have different price formulas, which could result in higher purchase prices than the price at which such gas could be sold in increasingly liberalised markets. Furthermore, gas availability could be subject to the risk of counterparties breaching their contractual obligations. Thus, it might be necessary to turn to other sources of natural gas, which could have higher prices than those envisaged under the breached contracts.

Repsol also has long-term contracts to sell and deliver gas to clients, which present additional types of risks, as they are pegged to existing proven reserves in these countries. Should reserves in these countries to whose reserves are linked prove insufficient, Repsol might not be able to satisfy its obligations under these contracts, some of which include penalty clauses for breach of contract.

The occurrence of any of the aforementioned risks could have an adverse effect on Repsol's business, financial position and results of operations.

Cyclical nature of petrochemical activity

The petrochemicals industry is subject to wide fluctuations in supply and demand, reflecting the cyclical nature of the chemicals market on a regional and global scale. These fluctuations affect the prices and profitability of petrochemicals companies, including Repsol. Repsol's petrochemicals business is also subject to extensive governmental regulation and intervention in such matters as safety and environmental controls. Any such fluctuations or changes in regulation could have an adverse effect on Repsol's business, financial position and results of operations.

Repsol Group's strategy requires efficiency and innovation in a highly competitive market

The oil, gas and petrochemical industry operates in the context of a highly competitive energy sector. This competition influences the conditions for accessing markets or following new business leads, the costs of licenses and the pricing and marketing of products, and requires the Repsol Group's utmost attention and continuous efforts towards improving efficiency and reducing unit costs, without becoming detrimental to operational safety or the management of other strategic, operational and financial risks.

The implementation of the Group's strategy requires a significant ability to anticipate and adapt to the market and continuous investment in technological advances and innovation. Should Repsol not be capable of anticipating and adapting to these market requirements, it could have a negative impact on its business, operational results and financial situation.

The Repsol Group is subject to the effects of administrative, judicial and arbitration proceedings

The Repsol Group is subject to the effects of administrative, judicial and arbitration proceedings arisen in the ordinary course of business. Repsol could also become involved in other possible future lawsuits in relation to which Repsol is unable to predict the scope, subject-matter or outcome. Any current or future dispute inevitably involves a high degree of uncertainty and any adverse outcome could adversely affect the business, financial position and results of operations of the Repsol Group.

Repsol's operations may be affected by government sanctions

The European Union, its Member States, the U.S. government and various other countries, as well as the United Nations, impose economic sanctions and trade embargoes with respect to certain countries in support of its respective foreign policy and security goals. These economic sanctions and embargoes impose restrictions with respect to activities or transactions with certain countries, governments, entities or individuals that are the target of the corresponding sanctions.

While Repsol has not been sanctioned and has not engaged in, and does not expect to engage in, any actions that would cause it to breach any sanctions regime applicable to it, there can be no assurance that Repsol's operations will not be affected by sanctions in the future, which could have an adverse effect on its financial position, businesses, or operating results.

Information technology and its reliability and robustness are a key factor in maintaining our operations

The reliability and security of Repsol Group's information technology systems are critical to maintaining the availability of its business processes and the confidentiality and integrity of the data belonging to the Group and third parties. Given that cyber-attacks are constantly evolving, the Repsol Group cannot guarantee that it will not suffer economic and/or material losses in the future caused by such attacks. This could have a negative impact on its activities, results of operations or financial position.

Misconduct or violations of applicable legislation by our employees may damage the reputation of the Repsol Group

Group's Ethics and Conduct Regulations, which are mandatory for all Group employees regardless of their geographic location, area of activity or professional level, establish the overall guidelines for the conduct of the Group and all its employees in performing their duties and in their commercial and professional relationships, in line with the principles of corporate loyalty, good faith, integrity and respect for the law and the ethical values defined by the Group. The different compliance and control models of the Group include controls aimed at preventing, detecting and mitigating relevant compliance aspects of this regulation. The occurrence of any management misconduct or breach of any applicable legislation could cause harm to the Group's reputation, in addition to incurring sanctions and legal liability.

Repsol is exposed to negative opinion trends which could have an adverse impact on its image and reputation, thereby affecting its business opportunities

The Company carries out its transactions in multiple environments with diverse interest groups, which are mainly local communities in the influence areas in which it operates, as well as local and national civil, political, labor, and consumer organizations, among others.

Should the interests of the above groups be contrary to the Company's activities, and attempts to reach agreements be unsuccessful, Repsol is in a position to be affected by the publication of biased or manipulated information which generates opinion contrary to the Company's activities.

This could result in a negative impact on the social or media acceptance of Repsol's activities, leading to erosion of the Company's image as well as lost business opportunities in the area or country in question, with potential adverse effects on its business, financial position, and the result of its operations.

3. FINANCIAL RISKS

Note 16 - "Financial Risk and Capital Management" and Note 17 - "Derivative transactions" in the Consolidated Financial Statements for the financial year 2015 presented in Section II.C. of this Registration Document analyse the exposure to those financial risks and include details about them and the hedging transactions.

The main financial risks are described below:

Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is associated with the Group's ability to finance its obligations at reasonable market prices, as well as being able to carry out its business plans with stable financing sources.

At 31 December 2015, Repsol held resources in cash and other liquid financial instruments and undrawn credit lines which covered 50% of the total gross. The Group had undrawn credit lines for €6,360 million and €3,312 million at 31 December 2015 and 2014, respectively.

In the case that Repsol is unable to meet its needs for liquidity in the future or needs to incur high costs to meet them, a material adverse effect could arise in its activities, results or financial position.

Credit risk

Credit risk is defined as the possibility of a third party breaching its contractual obligations, giving rise to losses for the Group.

The Group's exposure to credit risk is attributable, among other matters, to commercial debts for trade, which are measured and controlled by individual client or third party and the amounts of which are recognised in the balance sheet net of valuation corrections for impairment to the sum of €4.119 million and €4,459 million, respectively, at 31 December 2015 and 2014. To this end, the Group has its own systems, in line with best practices, for constantly assess the creditworthiness of all its debtors and for determining the risk limits by individual third parties.

As a general rule, the Group establishes a bank guarantee issued by financial entities as the most suitable instrument of protection from credit risk. In some cases, the Group has contracted credit insurance policies whereby this transfers partially to third parties the credit risk related to the commercial activity of some of its businesses.

Additionally, the Group also has exposure to counterparty risk arising from non-commercial contractual operations that may lead to defaults. In these cases, the Group analyses the solvency of counterparties with which it maintains or could maintain non-commercial contractual relations. Possible breaches of payment obligations by Repsol's clients and counterparties, in the agreed time and form, could result in a material adverse effect on its activities, results or financial position.

Market risk

The Group is exposed to several types of market risks: exchange rate risk, commodity risk, interest rate risk and credit rating risk, which are described below:

- Risks from changes in foreign exchange currency rates: Changes in exchange rates may adversely affect Repsol's operating results and the value of its assets.

In general, this exposure to exchange rate risk stems from the existence in the Group companies of assets, liabilities and cash flows denominated in a currency other than Repsol's operating currency, with particular emphasis on the fact that (i) cash flows from international trade operations in oil, natural gas and refined products are usually denominated in U.S. dollars and (ii) many of Repsol's financial assets and investments are also denominated in U.S. dollars.

Additionally, it has to be noted that (i) cash flows from operations carried out in countries in which Repsol is active are exposed to changes in exchange rates of the applicable local currencies against the major currencies used for listing the commodities which serve as reference for establishing prices in the local currency; and (ii) Repsol presents its financial statements in euros, and therefore, assets and liabilities of subsidiaries operating with an operating currency other than euro, must be converted into that currency.

Although, when considered appropriate, Repsol carries out financial transactions for investment or financing in the currencies in which exposures to risk have been identified and can contract hedging by means of derivative financial instruments for those currencies in which there is a liquid market, these hedging mechanisms are limited and, therefore, could be insufficient in some cases.

The sensitivity of net income and equity, as a consequence of the effect on financial instruments held by the Group at 31 December 2015 and 2014, of the appreciation or depreciation of the euro against the dollar are detailed below:

CHANGE IN THE EURO EXCHANGE RATE AGAINST THE DOLLAR	Appreciation(+)/ depreciation(-) in the exchange rate	2015 ⁽¹⁾	2014 ⁽¹⁾
	(%)	(million €)
Effect on profit/loss after tax	+5	15	5
	-5	(16)	(5)
Effect on equity	+5	186	72
	-5	(205)	(79)

Note 16 - "Financial risk and capital management" and Note 17 - "Derivative transactions" in the Group's Consolidated Financial Statements for the financial year ended 31 December 2015 include additional details on the financial risks described in this section and the hedging operations performed.

- Commodity price risk: In the normal course of operations and trading activities, Repsol Group results are exposed to volatility in the price of crude oil, natural gas, and related derivative products (see risk factors “Fluctuations in international prices of crude and reference products and in demand owing to factors beyond Repsol’s control” and “Repsol’s natural gas operations are subject to particular operational and market risks”). Therefore, changes in the price of oil, natural gas or its derivative products could have an adverse impact on the Group’s businesses, results and financial position.

In particular, with respect to the financial instruments held by the Group, at 31 December 2015 and 2014, an increase or decrease of 10% in the prices of oil and oil products at that date would have led to the following changes in net profit/loss:

CHANGES IN NET PROFIT/LOSS	Increase(+)/ decrease(-) in oil and oil product prices	2015 ⁽¹⁾	2014 ⁽¹⁾
Effect on profit/loss after tax.....	+10	(6)	(26)
	-10	6	26

Note 17 - “Derivative transactions” in the Group’s Consolidated Financial Statements for the financial year ended 31 December 2015 include additional details on the financial risks described in this section.

- Interest rate risk: Market value of the net financing and interests of the Group could be affected as a consequence of changes in interest rates, which can affect the interest income and expenses of financial assets and liabilities tied to floating interest rates and the fair value of financial assets and liabilities with fixed rate.

Although, when considered appropriate, Repsol may decide to hedge the interest rate risk by means of derivative financial instruments for which there is a liquid market and with reasonable transaction costs. Therefore, changes in interest rates could have an adverse effect on the Group’s businesses, results and financial position.

The following table details the sensitivity of the net profit/loss and equity, as a consequence of the effect on the financial instruments held by the Group at 31 December 2015 and 2014, the changes in the interest rates:

SENSITIVITY OF NET PROFIT/LOSS AND EQUITY	Increase(+)/ decrease(-) in the interest rate	2015 ⁽¹⁾	2014 ⁽¹⁾
	(basis points)	(million €)
Effect on profit/loss after tax.....	+50	(10)	4
	-50	10	(4)
Effect on equity.....	+50	14	61

Note 16 - “Financial risk and capital management” and Note 17 - “Derivative transactions” in the Group’s Consolidated Financial Statements for the financial year ended 31 December 2015 include additional details on the financial risks described in this section and the hedging operations performed.

- Credit rating risk: Credit ratings affect the cost and other conditions under which the Repsol Group is able to obtain financing. Any downgrade in Repsol, S.A.’s credit rating could restrict or limit the access of the Group to financial markets, increase the cost of any new finance or have a negative effect on its liquidity. This could have a negative impact on the Repsol Group’s financial position.

At present, the credit ratings assigned to Repsol, S.A. by ratings agencies are as follows:

TERM	STANDARD & POOR’S	MOODY’S	FITCH RATINGS
Long	BBB-	Baa2	BBB
Short.....	A-3	P-2	F-3
Outlook	Negative	Negative	Negative
Date of last review.....	21 March 2016	21 March 2016	23 March 2016

Credit ratings are revised periodically and are available in Repsol website (www.repsol.com).

5.1.5 Important events in the development of the issuer’s business

Repsol, S.A. commenced operations in October 1987 after a process of reorganisation of the gas and oil businesses hitherto owned by the National Hydrocarbons Institute (“INH”), a Spanish public law entity that operated as a holding company for the gas and oil businesses owned by the Spanish Government.

Key milestones in the history of Repsol are as follows:

- Repsol, S.A. was incorporated in 1986, and in 1987 the INH began the process of reorganising its shareholdings in the Spanish oil industry.
- In 1989, the process of privatisation of Repsol, S.A. begins. Its shares were first listed on the Spanish stock exchanges (Madrid, Barcelona, Bilbao and Valencia) and, through American Depositary Shares (ADS), on the New York Stock Exchange, on which they were traded until March 2011.
- The privatisation of Repsol, S.A. culminated with the public offers for the sale of shares in Repsol, S.A. carried out by Sociedad Estatal de Participaciones Industriales (SEPI) in 1996 and 1997.
- Between 1999 and 2000, Repsol, S.A. paid €14,298 million in exchange for 99% of YPF, Argentina’s leading oil company and a former national operator in the industry, thereby completing its international expansion. In the same year, shares in Repsol, S.A. were listed on the Buenos Aires Stock Exchange, and in 2000 the company changed its name to Repsol YPF, S.A.
- On 7 May 2012, Law 26.741 came into force in the Republic of Argentina, which declared the 51% of shares in YPF S.A. and the 60% of shares in YPF Gas S.A. belonging to Repsol Group (the “Expropriated Shares”) of public utility and subject to expropriation.
- On 31 May 2012, the Ordinary General Shareholders’ Meeting of Repsol, S.A. agreed to change the corporate name of Repsol YPF, S.A. to Repsol, S.A. On the same date, the Board of Directors approved a resolution to move the company’s registered office to Calle Méndez Álvaro, 44, Madrid, Spain.
- On 26 February 2013, Repsol signed an agreement with Shell for the sale of part of its LNG assets and businesses. Former sale concluded with three different transactions closed in October and December 2013 and January 2014.
- On 27 February 2014, Repsol, S.A., Repsol Capital, S.L. and Repsol Butano, S.A., on one side, and the Republic of Argentina, on the other, signed the Amicable Solution and Expropriation Conciliation Agreement (the “Agreement”), the aim of which was to put an end to the controversy arising from the expropriation. At the same time, Repsol, on one side, and YPF and YPF Gas, on the other, signed the Settlement Agreement, the principal purpose of which was for the parties to agree on the cancellation of the proceedings underway and grant a series of waivers and mutual indemnities.

By virtue of the Agreement, the Republic of Argentina recognised a guaranteed debt to Repsol of $5,000 million by way of indemnification for the expropriation of the Expropriated Shares and other items considered in the Agreement.

For the compensation payment, the Republic of Argentina provided Repsol with a portfolio of Argentinean government debt securities in US dollars (the “Government Securities”) with a total nominal value of $5,317 million.

In May 2014, Repsol formalised several sales transactions with JP Morgan Securities for all of the Securities. With these sales, the debt recognised by the Republic of Argentina was extinguished.

In addition, in 2014, Repsol sold the shares in YPF, S.A. that had not been expropriated.

- In May 2015, Repsol acquired 100% of the share capital in Talisman, a Canadian company dedicated to exploration, development, production, transportation and sale of crude oil, natural gas and other liquid hydrocarbons, amounting to a total of €8,005 million, the purchase price of its ordinary shares ($8 per share) and its preferred shares (CAD 25 per preferred share), and the cash derived from exchange risk hedging in the purchase price. Following the acquisition, Repsol delisted the ordinary shares from the Toronto and New York stock exchange and the preferred shares from the Toronto stock exchange, the latter shares having subsequently been converted into ordinary shares.

In November 2015, four new wells in the eastern area of Eagle Ford went into production. An agreement was announced with Statoil in December 2015 under which Repsol has exchanged a 13% interest in Eagle Ford (holding a 37% interest in this asset) for a 15% interest in the Gudrum production field in Norway. As a result, Statoil becomes the operator company of the entire area.
- Exploration in Alaska North Slope: in 2011, Repsol announced that an agreement had been reached with “70 & 148 LLC” and “GMT Exploration LLC” companies to undertake joint exploration of an extensive area he in Alaska’s prolific “North Slope”. The project consists of a series of blocks occupying an area of 2,000 km² located near to major production fields. In 2015, as part of the exploration and appraisal campaign undertaken in this area, two evaluation/appraisal wells (Q-8 and Q-301) and one exploration well (Q-9) were concluded with positive results. In October 2015, Repsol reached an agreement with its partner Armstrong Oil & Gas, under which Armstrong acquired a 15% working interest (to add to its 30%) in the Colville River Delta development area. Repsol has retained a 55% interest in this area. In addition, Armstrong also acquired a 45% working interest (on top of its 30%) and operatorship in the exploration area. Repsol has retained a 25% interest in this exploration area.
- Shenzi (Gulf of Mexico): Repsol holds a 28% stake in the field, together with BHP Billiton (operator), which holds 44%, and Hess, which holds the remaining 28%. This field is situated in deep water in the US Gulf of Mexico, production of oil and gas from the Shenzi platform commenced in March 2009. In 2015, two new wells B104 and H103 went into production, as part of the ongoing development work in the North Area. During October, the second horizontal drilling (sidetrack) at the Shenzi North well concluded successfully.

- Mississippian Lime: In January 2012, Repsol signed an agreement with the U.S. oil company SandRidge Energy whereby Repsol is set to acquire 16.2% and 25% interests in two areas of unconventional resources within the larger Mississippian Lime oilfield, bridging the states of Oklahoma and Kansas. In 2015 there was less development activity, drilling around 230 wells, which meant a reduction of 45% compared to 2014.

- Canada:

Following the acquisition of Talisman, the important assets that the company had in this country were included in the Repsol portfolio:

- Greater Edson: an oil and gas production area located in Edson (Alberta) with an average working interest of 75%. It encompasses six areas: Edson, Sundance/MedLodge, Ansell and Minehead in the south, and Wild River and Bigstone in the north.
- Chauvin: an area located in Alberta / Saskatchewan with stable production of conventional heavy oil.
- Duvernay: non-mature area. It is at the initial stage of development and appraisal, producing oil and gas, and is located in central-western Alberta. In 2015, drilling continued to appraise the southern area. In October 2015, production began at a new well.
- Montney: Talisman’s acquisition added the Groundbirch and Saturn assets in this gas production area to Repsol’s portfolio, after having transferred the remaining assets in Montney.

LATIN AMERICA

- Brazil:

Through the company Repsol Sinopec Brasil, an alliance established between Repsol (60%) and the Chinese company Sinopec (40%), Repsol has existing investments, essentially in the BM-S-9 block (in the productive asset Sapinhoá and the development asset Lapa) and the exploration block BM-C-33.

- BM-S-9 Block: At the BM-S-9 “pre-salt” deep-water block located in the Santos basin, two major development and production projects have materialised over recent years in Sapinhoá (discovered in 2008) and Lapa (discovered in 2007). Repsol Sinopec Brasil holds a 25% stake in the projects. The other partners comprising the consortium are Petrobras (45% and operator) and British Gas (BG Group, with 30%).

With respect to the Sapinhoá project, in January 2013, its commercial operation began with the output from the first production well in the southern area of the BM-S-9 block, where a new well was put into production in March 2015 through FPSO (Floating Production, Storage and Offloading), “Cidade de São Paulo” where a production plateau was already reached in 2014, with a production capacity of 120,000 barrels of crude oil per day and 5 million cubic metres of gas per day.

Within the development work in the North Area, which began its production in November 2014, in 2015 two new wells were put into production that connected to the “Cidade de Ilhabela” FPSO, which has a production capacity of 150,000 barrels per day of crude oil and 6 million cubic metres of gas per day. The gas injection work to increase production began in June 2015. The aim of the North Area development plan is to reach the production plateau in 2016. Within the framework of the Lapa field development project, in 2015 development work continued in the North-east Area with an aim to start production in the last quarter of 2016. Hence in August 2015, drilling of the P-NE-02 development drill was completed. The good results in terms of productivity of the Lapa 9 development drill in the South Area make it recommendable to also drive development of this second stage of the Lapa project.

- BM-C-33 Block: in this block, located in the deep waters of the Campos Basin, within the exploration and assessment work being performed, the Pão de Açúcar-1 appraisal well finished in October 2015 with positive results. At the end of the year 2015 a second appraisal well (Pão de Açúcar-2) concluded successfully. Repsol has made four important discoveries as operator at this block: Seat-2 (2014), Pão de Açúcar (2012), Gávea (2011) and Seat (2010). Block BM-C-33 is held by Repsol Sinopec Brasil (35%), together with Statoil (35%) and Petrobras (30%). In December 2015, Repsol Sinopec Brasil (a 60%-owned by Repsol) announced it had approved the proposal to pass operatorship of Block BM-C-33 to Statoil. Repsol-Sinopec Brasil will retain a 35% working interest in this venture.
- Bolivia:
 - Margarita-Huacaya: in November 2015, the completion of phase three of the Margarita-Huacaya project was announced. In August 2015, in conjunction with the start of production at the Margarita-8 well (discovered in February 2015), production peaked at a record 19 million cubic metres per day, equivalent to over 30% of all production in Bolivia. Phase one of this project entered production in May 2012, with the commissioning of the gas processing facility, the fluid gathering system, gas pipelines and completion of the wells: total gas production jumped from three to nine million cubic metres per day in 2012. Phase two was inaugurated in October 2013; lifting gas production capacity to 15Mm³/d. Phase three was approved in 2014 with a view to boosting production to 18 million cubic metres per day by early 2016, a milestone achieved in February 2015.

In May 2015, the second gas discovery in the year at the Margarita-Huacaya Block was announced, following the additional exploratory drilling at the Margarita-7 appraisal well. The positive results of this drill are currently being evaluated.

Margarita- Huacaya is being developed by a consortium made up of Repsol (operator, with a 37.5% stake), BG (37.5%) and PAE (25%).

- Peru:
 - Block 57 (Kinteroni and Sagari): investments in this block focus on the Kinteroni production field and the work to put into production the Sagari discovery. In March 2014 production started in the Kinteroni gas field in the south of Block 57, discovered by Repsol in January 2008 and where Repsol is the operating company with 53.84%. The field is close to the Camisea gas and condensate productive field, in which Repsol also holds a stake. Repsol made a new gas discovery in Block 57 in September 2012 with the Sagari exploration well (located north of Kinteroni), and in October 2015, the final investment decision (FID) was approved to put into production.
 - La Pampilla refinery: in September 2012, Repsol approved the project for adaptation to the new fuel specifications at the La Pampilla Refinery in Peru. The start-up of this project will enable environmental improvement in air quality, as well as the entry to the country of vehicles with technologically improved engines (initially Euro IV and Euro V later).

Among other units, the project involves the construction, in the middle distillates block, of a Hydrodesulphurisation (HDS) unit with a capacity of 1.4 million tonnes per year and a Hydrogen unit. As per the commitment to the authorities, commercialisation of 50 ppm diesel production would take place in July 2016.

The project also involves, among other units, the construction in the petroleum block, of two Naphtha Hydrotreating (HDT) units with combined capacity for 715 thousand tonnes per year, one for the primary petroleum and the other for cracked petroleum, as well as a reforming unit for 215 thousand tonnes per year. No commitment has yet been defined with the authorities, but commercialisation of the petrol production is estimated to take place in July 2018.

- Venezuela:

- Cardón IV (Perla): the Perla mega-field was discovered by Repsol (50%) and Eni (50%) in 2009 within the Cardón IV block, which is located in shallow waters of the Gulf of Venezuela, roughly 50 kilometres from the coast. Production began in July 2015. The gas processing plant was inaugurated in August, the main gas production platform having been already successfully installed in May. A second, third and fourth well were put into production in September, October and November, respectively, enabling delivery by October 2015 of the gas production target set for phase one of development of the field with total production of 150 million standard cubic feet per day (Mscfd); production peaked at 500 Mscfd in early December. The target for phase two is to lift total stable production to 450 Mscfd, with scope for bringing this level to 800 and even 1,200 Mscfd during subsequent development phases.
- Carabobo: in February 2010 a consortium of international companies led by Repsol with a holding of 11% was awarded the Carabobo-1 project by the Venezuelan government. This project consists of the development and production of the heavy crude oil reserves in the Carabobo 1 Norte and Carabobo 1 Centro blocks, located in the Orinoco Petroleum Belt. Drilling and infrastructure build-out work continued in 2015 to ensure full development of this project. The contracts for the supply (Long Lead Items) of the for the 60kboe/d plant were awarded by tender in September. Production at the first well envisaged by the accelerated development plan devised for the Carabobo field began in 2012. Close to 40 productive wells were in operation by year-end 2015.

AFRICA

- Algeria:

- Reggane Nord: in January 2015, development drilling began at the important Reggane Nord gas project. The production test at the first well drilled (in the Kahlouche field) confirmed the area's productivity. A major milestone was achieved in the second quarter of 2015 in terms of bringing Reggane to production, with the signature of the construction of a gas treatment plant with nominal capacity of 8 million metric cubic metres per day, the producer well gathering network and the gas export line that will connect the plant to the grid pipeline (GR-5). Execution of the works will take an estimated 36 months and gas production is expected to begin in 2017. Once fully ramp-up, production is targeted to reach 8 million cubic metres per day. The infrastructure construction work also began in 2015: drill rigs, temporary landing strips and definitive roads and tracks to the plant and the wells across the Kahlouche field. This gas project in the Algerian Sahara Desert includes the development of six fields (Reggane, Kahlouche, Kahlouche Sud, Sali, Tiouliline, and Azrafil Sudest) in the Reggane Basin. Repsol has a 29.25% interest in this project.

- Norway:

- Repsol's exploration assets in Norway received a boost on May 8 when Talisman's assets in this country were added to the portfolio, most notably operatorship of the Blane, Gyda, Rev, Yme and Varg fields with working interests ranging between 31% and 100%. Repsol also received non-operated interests in the Brage, Veslefrikk, Huldra, Brynhild and Tambar East fields, with interests ranging between 10% and 34%.

- United Kingdom:

- TSEUK: After the acquisition of Talisman on May 8, Repsol's UK asset portfolio was boosted in this country. These assets are held by the TSEUK joint venture where Talisman holds 51% and the Sinopec Group, owns the remaining 49%. The joint venture was set up to explore and exploit hydrocarbons in the North Sea.

ASIA AND OCEANIA

- Indonesia:

- Corridor: Talisman has contributed a 36% non-operated interest in the important gas-producing block called Corridor PSC where its interests in two of the fields (Gelam and Suban) are 30.96% and 32.4%, respectively. Most of the natural gas produced in the Corridor Block is sold under long-term offtake agreements with PT Chevron Pacific Indonesia, Gas Supply Pte. Ltd. and PT Perusahaan Gas Negara. In addition, in 2015, the Corridor gas offtake agreement with COPI (Conoco Phillips Indonesia) was extended until the end of this block's profit-sharing contract.

- Malaysia:

In 2015, Repsol entered the Malaysian exploration and production market via Talisman (whose assets in this market are all offshore) with effect from May 8. The following assets stand out:

- PM-3 CAA PSC Block: an operated productive block in which the company has a 41.44% interest, except for the Bunga Kekwa 8G-31 sub-block in which the interest is 35%. Negotiations to renew the license for this block, which expires in 2017, are currently advanced and the license is expected to be renewed without incident. Progress was made at the Bunga Pakam project in 2015. This project could transition to the execution phase in 2016, which would mark phase six of development of the PM-3 CAA Block.
- Kinabalu Oil PSC Block: mature offshore oil field in the Sabah Basin of Malaysia, operated with a 60% interest. The final investment decision (FID) to re-develop the Kinabalu field was taken in May 2015. The project consists of a new platform, connection lines with the existing Kinabalu facilities and the drilling of 10 additional productive wells.

- Vietnam:

- 07/03 Block (“Red Emperor/CRD” discovery): Repsol holds a 46.75% interest. In January 2015, the venture partners in Block 07/03, together with PetroVietnam, approved the development plan for the discovery, and it was declared commercially viable in July.

5.2.3 Principal future investments on which the management bodies have already assumed firm commitments

Information concerning this item is contained in Note 29– “Commitments and Guarantees” of the Consolidated Financial Statements for 2015 (see Section II.C.), and in section 7.2 entitled “Future outlook for our businesses” of the Repsol consolidated Management Report for 2015. This information is supplemented and updated by the following.

The main future investments on which Repsol’s management has already made firm commitments at 31 December 2015, described in this section. The total outlays amounted to €2,952 million, of which €2,651 million will be invested by 2020 and the remaining €301 million after that date. However, these amounts do not, in general, represent the total future investment planned for each of the projects, but only the amounts committed by management of Repsol at the aforementioned date. In relation to the anticipated sources for financing the investments, see item 10.5 of this Registration Document.

The principal investments adopted for firm commitments are basically in the Upstream area, where investment commitments total approximately €2,645 million.

A significant part of this figure (24%) corresponds to the development of the Reganne gas project in Algeria; commitments for the Carabobo heavy crude project in Venezuela, Sagari in Peru, Margarita-Huacaya in Bolivia and Kinabalu PSC in Malaysia are also relevant, together representing 33% of the Upstream investment commitments. Within the exploratory activity, which represents a total of 43% of the Upstream investment commitments, the exploration to be made in Colombia, Gabon, Papua New Guinea, Bulgaria, Russia and the United States stands out.

Information regarding this item is provided in Note 21—“Operating revenue and expenses” and in Note 22—“Impairment of assets” of the Consolidated Financial Statements for 2015 and under section 1—“Main events during the period”; section 3—“Macroeconomic environment”; section 4—“Results, financial overview and our shareholder remuneration”; and in the section 5—“Performance by business areas” of the consolidated Management Report for 2015 (see Section II.C.) supplemented by the risk factors contained in Section I of this Registration Document.

Besides this fact, there have been no unusual or new significant events materially affecting Repsol’s income.

9.2.2 Material changes in the issuer’s net sales or revenues

See items 6.1 and 9.2.1 of this Registration Document. The information relating to this item is also contained in Note 21 and Note 22, both called “Operating revenue and expenses”, in the Consolidated Financial Statements for 2015 and 2014, respectively.

9.2.3 Governmental, economic, fiscal, monetary or political factors that have materially affected, or could materially affect, directly or indirectly, the issuer’s operations

The information relating to this item is stated in the following sections:

- Consolidated Financial Statements for 2015 (see Section II.C.):
Note 4—“Main acquisitions and disposals”; Note 16.1.4—“Other risks. Venezuela”; Note 20—“Tax Situation”; Note 22—“Impairment of assets”; Note 28—“Legal contingencies”; and Appendix IV —“Regulatory framework”.

Note 4.1—“Disposal of YPF S.A. and YPF Gas S.A. shares.”; Note 21—“Tax Situation”; Note 29.1—“Legal and arbitration proceeding”; and Appendix III—“Regulatory framework”.

- Consolidated Management Report for 2014 (see Section II.D.):
Section 3—“Entorno macroeconómico”; section 5.1—“Upstream”; section 6.3—“Taxation”; section 7—“Outlook and Prospects”; and section 8—“Risk Management”.

This information is also updated and supplemented with the risk factors contained in Section I of this Registration Document and by the information set forth below.

Low crude oil and gas prices have a negative impact on Upstream’s results (see risk factors “Fluctuations in international prices of crude and reference products and in demand owing to factors beyond Repsol’s control” and “Uncertainty of the current economic context”).

In 2014, the average price of Brent crude oil was $98.9 per barrel, compared with the average of $81.8 per barrel recorded during the 2004-2014 period. In 2015, the range of prices fluctuated between approximately $35.6 and 66.7 per barrel, with an average price of $52.5 per barrel.

The environment of low crude oil and gas prices has led to a drop in the recurring operating profit in the Upstream segment and the recording of significant impairment in its assets, amounting to €4,010 million, as described in Note 22 —“Impairment of assets” of the 2015 consolidated financial statements. As a result of the above, the Group suffered a net loss in 2015.

In the first quarter of 2016, the price of Brent crude oil stood at an average of USD 33.9 per barrel, by comparison to the average of USD 53.9 per barrel for the same period in 2015. As long as the scenario of low prices continues, Group results will be negatively impacted.

Apart from the above, no other governmental orders or economic, monetary or political factors have directly or indirectly had any material bearing on Repsol’s operations.

14.2 Administrative, management and supervisory bodies and senior management conflicts of interests

Information on this particular section is contained in Note 26 - "Remuneration of the members of the Board of Directors and executives" of the Consolidated Financial Statements for 2015 and likewise under Sections C.1.19, C.1.23 and D.6 of the Annual Corporate Governance report of Repsol, S.A. for 2015 (see Section II.C It is also supplemented and updated with the following additional information.

A) Potential conflicts of interest between the duties to the issuer of the persons mentioned in item 14.1 above and their private interests and/or other duties

According to the information that has been provided to Repsol, S.A., none of the persons mentioned in item 14.1 above have conflicts of interest between their duties with Repsol, S.A. and their private interests, nor do they perform activities on their own behalf or on behalf of any third party that entail effective competition, current or potential, with the Company or which, in any other way, place them in an ongoing conflict with the interests of the Company.

In accordance with Article 227 et seq. of the Spanish Companies Act (LSC), Repsol, S.A. has established specific internal regulations to detect, identify and resolve potential conflicts between the private interests of any director and those of Repsol, S.A.

The Board of Directors Regulations require that the Directors refrain from taking part in discussion and voting on resolutions or decisions in which s/he or a related person has a direct or indirect conflict of interest. Furthermore, the Directors shall take the necessary measures to avoid falling into situations in which their interests, whether on their own behalf or on the behalf of a third party, conflict with company interests and their duties to Repsol S.A. The Board of Directors must be notified of any situation in which the interests of the Directors conflict with company interests and their duties to the Company. This obligation to abstain excludes resolutions or decisions that affect them in their role as Director, such as their appointment or revocation for posts on the Board of Directors.

- Except by waiver of the Board of Directors, the Director may not serve on more than four Boards of listed companies other than Repsol, S.A. For the purposes of this rule: (a) the boards of all the companies belonging to the same group shall be counted as a single Board of Directors, together with the representation of major shareholders at the proposal of a group company, even when the participation in the share capital of the company or its degree of control does not allow to consider it as part of the group; and (b) not counting Directors of holding companies or companies that constitute vehicles or accessories for the professional exercise of the Director, their spouses or persons with a similar relationship, or their close relatives.
- Directors are also required to report all other professional obligations and paid activities that they perform, regardless of their nature, to the Nomination Committee, as well as any significant changes in their professional situation or such as might affect the capacity or condition in which they may have been appointed as directors.
- If directors are affected by any case of incompatibility or legal, by law or regulatory prohibition, they are required to tender their resignation to the Board of Directors and to resign where the latter considers this appropriate. Such circumstances include cases in which a director is affected by a permanent conflict of interests with Repsol, S.A.
- Article 19 of the Board of Directors Regulations includes the basic obligations of the Directors arising from the duty of loyalty. Specifically, the duty of loyalty includes but is not limited to the following obligations of the Directors:
 - Not to exercise their powers for purposes other than those for which they were assigned.
 - Maintain confidentiality on the resolutions of the corporate bodies of Repsol, S.A., and on the information, data, reports or background to which they may have had access in the performance of their roles.
 - Refrain from taking part in discussion and voting on resolutions or decisions in which s/he or a related person has a direct or indirect conflict of interest.

- Perform their roles according to the principle of personal responsibility with freedom of judgement or opinion and independence with respect to the instructions of and relationships to third parties.
- Take the necessary measures to avoid involvement in situations in which his interests, either on his own account or on behalf of third parties, may conflict with the corporate interest and with his duties to Repsol, S.A. Specifically, this duty obliges Directors to refrain from: (i) performing transactions with Repsol, S.A., except as provided under article 23 of the Board Regulations; (ii) using the name of Repsol, S.A. or assert their position as Director to unduly influence the performance of private transactions; (iii) making use of company assets, including confidential information of Repsol, S.A., for private ends; (iv) taking advantage of business opportunities of Repsol, S.A.; (v) obtaining benefits or payments from third parties other than Repsol, S.A. and the Group linked to the performance of their role, except in the case of mere acts of courtesy; or (vi) performing activities on their own behalf or on behalf of others that entail effective competition, current or potential, with Repsol, S.A. or that, in any other way, place them in an ongoing conflict with the interests of Repsol, S.A., all in the terms provided for by Law and in the following articles of the Board of Directors Regulations.
- Inform Repsol, S.A., within a term of 5 working days, of shares in the company or share options or derivatives relating to the value of the shares and of changes occurring in said holding, or rights that they hold, directly or through direct family members or of companies in which they have a significant holding.
- Behave with due solidarity and coordination as a member of a corporate board.
- Articles 20 to 23 of the Regulations of the Board of Directors impose mandatory obligations on the directors in matters of no competition, use of information and corporate assets and business opportunities, along with requirements in relation to related-party transactions entered into by Repsol, S.A. with its directors, major shareholders represented on the Board and persons related with such parties.

Article 20 of the Regulations of the Board of Directors governs the no competition obligation of Board members, dictating as a general rule that directors may not engage, on their own or someone else's behalf, in activities whose exercise constitutes competition with Repsol, S.A., unless the following circumstances apply:

- (i) It is reasonably foreseeable that the competitive situation activity will not cause harm to Repsol, S.A. or that the foreseeable harm shall be compensated by the expected benefit that Repsol, S.A. can reasonably get for allowing this situation of competition;
- (ii) After having received advice from an independent external consultant of recognised prestige in the financial community and subject to hearing of the affected shareholder or Director, the Nomination Committee issues a report assessing compliance with the requirement provided for in point (i) above; and
- (iii) When the Annual General Meeting agrees expressly to waive the prohibition of competition via the affirmative vote of 75% of the share capital present or represented at the General Shareholders Meeting.

For the purposes of the provisions of this Article the companies with which Repsol, S.A. has established a strategic alliance, among others, shall be deemed to not be in a situation of competition with the Company, even if they have the same, similar or complementary corporate purposes and while that alliance remains in effect.

Article 23 of the Regulations of the Board of Directors establishes substantive and procedural requirements governing Repsol, S.A. dealings with directors, with significant shareholders represented on the Board and with related parties.

As a general rule (and except for transactions of little to no importance) transactions must be authorised by the Board of Directors after receiving a favourable report from the Nomination Committee.

As a general rule, in the case of related transactions that (i) for an amount exceeding 5% of the Group's assets in accordance with the latest consolidated financial statements approved by the Annual General Meeting; (ii) refer to Repsol's strategic assets; (iii) entail a transfer of relevant Repsol technology; or (iv) are aimed at establishing strategic alliances or do not involve mere implementation agreements or implementation of alliances that have already been set up, they may only be entered into if (i) the transaction is fair and efficient from the standpoint of Repsol, S.A.'s interests, (ii) provided this is corroborated by the Nomination Committee after receiving a report from an independent expert of recognised standing within the financial community as to the reasonableness and arm's length terms of the related-party transaction, and (iii) insofar as the Annual General Meeting authorises the transaction with a favourable vote of 75% of the capital present and represented at the Annual General Meeting.

However, in those cases in which, due to special circumstances, it is not advisable to wait until the next Annual General Meeting, and provided that the transaction value does not exceed 10% of the company's assets, the transaction may be approved by the Board of Directors under certain conditions: (i) the report issued by the Nomination Committee is favourable to the transaction; (ii) the agreement is adopted with the affirmative vote of two thirds of the Board members not affected by the conflict of interest. In this case the Board shall inform the terms and conditions of the transaction to the next Annual General Meeting.

At the time of calling the Annual General Meeting to deal with or be informed of the related-party transactions, the Board must provide the shareholders with the aforementioned reports of the Nomination Committee and the independent expert and, if considered appropriate, its own report in this regard.

The Annual General Meeting held on 31 May 2012 agreed to introduce the redrafted articles 20 and 23 of the Regulations of the Board of Directors into the By-laws by adding a new Article 22 bis ("Related party transactions") and a new Article 44 bis ("Prohibition of competition").

Having informed the Remuneration Committee, the Board of Directors may, in special cases, waive the prohibitions contained in articles 21 and 22 of the Board Regulations and the others that are not specifically governed, in any case subject to the provisions of the Law, the corporate by-laws and the aforementioned Regulations.

Directors may only make use of Repsol, S.A. assets or take advantage of their position in the latter to obtain financial benefits with the authorisation of the Board of Directors, according to the terms provided for in article 24 of the Board Regulations and providing that they have paid a suitable consideration. If said consideration is dispensed with, the financial benefit thus obtained shall be considered as indirect remuneration and must be authorised by the Board of Directors, having first informed the Remuneration Committee, with strict compliance, if the benefit is received in the position of shareholder, of the principle of equal treatment between shareholders.

The obligation not to compete with Repsol, S.A. may only be waived in the event no damage is expected to be caused to the company or when it can be expected that Repsol, S.A. would be compensated by the benefits that may be obtained from the waiver. The waiver is granted by express and separate agreement of the Annual General Meeting. In all cases, at the request of any member, the General Meeting shall decide on the resignation of the Director who undertakes competitive activities where the risk of damage to company has become relevant.

Furthermore, Repsol, S.A. has implemented specific regulations designed to detect, identify and resolve any possible conflicts between the interests of employees or executives (including members of the Corporate Executive Committee) and the interests of Repsol, S.A.

The Repsol Group's Internal Conduct Regulations Regarding the Securities Market is especially applicable to directors and members of the Corporate Executive Committee in their condition as persons with habitual access to Repsol's confidential Article 2.2 of the Internal Conduct Regulations - "Register of persons affected"), providing for the prevention and resolution of conflicts of interest in sections 8.3 and 8.4, as follows:

▪ Section 8.3—"Conflict prevention":

"In order to control possible conflicts of interest, the executives and employees of Repsol Group shall inform in advance their respective heads of department of any situations that could potentially, in each specific circumstance, give rise to conflicts of interest with Repsol, S.A. or any of the companies in its group. Such notification shall be given sufficiently in advance of effecting the transaction or closing the deal in question to enable the appropriate decisions to be taken.

If the person affected by the potential conflict of interest is a member of the Board, the Board shall be notified and, if necessary, the opinion of the Audit and Control Committee shall be sought.

If there is any doubt as to the existence of a conflict of interest, the executives and employees of Repsol Group shall, as a measure of prudence, inform their respective heads of department or the Board, as the case may be, of the specific circumstances of the case, so that the latter may form an opinion on the situation."

▪ Section 8.4—"Conflict resolution":

"As a general rule, the principle for all kinds of conflicts of interest is abstention. Anyone potentially affected by a conflict of interest shall, therefore, abstain from participating in any decisions that may affect the individuals or entities with which the conflict could arise. They shall also abstain from trying to influence those decisions, acting in loyalty to the Repsol Group. In any conflicts of interest between the executives and employees of the Repsol Group and Repsol or any other company in its group, the former shall act at all times out of loyalty to the Repsol Group, putting the interests of the group above their own interests."

On a final note, section 3.6 of the Ethics and Conduct Regulation applicable to all Repsol executives and employees provides as follows:

"Conflicts of interest occur when employees' personal interests directly or indirectly run contrary to or clash with the Company's interests, interfere with the proper fulfilment of their professional duties and responsibilities or involve them personally in any Company economic transaction or operation.

Repsol recognises and respects its employees' participation in financial and business activities apart from those performed by the company, provided they are legal and ethical and do not clash with their responsibilities as employees of Repsol.

Repsol employees shall avoid any situations that could give rise to a conflict between their personal interests and those of the Company. They shall refrain from representing the company and participating or exerting any influence in the making of decisions regarding any situation in which they or people linked to them may directly or indirectly have a personal interest. They shall act at all times, in the performance of their responsibilities, with loyalty and in defence of the interests of Repsol.

For these purposes, considered as a close relative will be a spouse or persons with a similar personal relationship, forebears, descendants and siblings of the employee him- or herself and of his or her spouse, spouses of the employee's forebears, descendants and siblings and companies directly or indirectly controlled by the employee or an intervening person.

Furthermore, Executive Directors and persons linked to Repsol by an employment relationship may not, on their own or someone else's behalf, carry out tasks or work or provide services to the benefit of companies in the sector or companies which carry out activities liable to compete directly or indirectly with those of Repsol or which may come to do so.

In the case of a possible conflict of interest, Repsol's employees will obey the following general principles for action:

- a) Communication: they will inform their hierarchical superiors in writing about conflicts of interest to which they are subject before performing the transaction or concluding the business in question, so that the appropriate decisions may be made in each specific circumstance, thereby preventing any jeopardy to their unbiased actions.*
- b) Abstention: they will refrain from directly or indirectly intervening in or influencing decision making which could affect Repsol's organisations with which a conflict of interest exists, from taking part in meetings in which such decisions are proposed and from gaining access to confidential information affecting that conflict.*
- c) Independence: they will act professionally at all times, out of loyalty to Repsol and its shareholders and independently of their own interests and those of third parties. Consequently, they will refrain at all times from placing their own interests or those of third parties first at the expense of Repsol.*

B) Any agreement or understanding with major shareholders, customers, suppliers or others, pursuant to which any of the persons mentioned in item 14.1 was selected as a member of the administrative, management or supervisory bodies, or a senior executive

Aside from the institutional external directors of Repsol, S.A. (see item 14.1 of this Registration Document), none of the members of the Board of Directors of Repsol, S.A. or of the Corporate Executive Committee has been appointed to office under any kind of agreement or understanding with significant shareholders, customers, suppliers or any other person or entity.

C) Details of any restrictions agreed by the persons referred to in item 14.1 on the disposal within a period of time of their holdings in the company's securities

Out of its 64 recommendations, Repsol fully complies with 54 of them, 7 of them (2nd, 10th, 11th, 19th, 20th, 23rd y 28th) are not applicable and does not comply with 3 of them (13^a, 61^a y 62^a), which are explained below:

- Recommendation 13: The board of directors should be of the right size in order to achieve its effective and participatory running, making it to be advisable to have between 5 and 15 members.

Taking into consideration its capital structure and its representation on the board of directors, the General Meeting considered it appropriate for Repsol, S.A. to include within its board persons of the maximum professional prestige from the auditing, financial-accounting, industrial and stock market sectors, who are able to increase the decision-making ability of the board of directors and the richness of perspectives. To this end, the Board of Directors proposed to the Annual General Meeting of 30 April 2014, within the maximum and minimum limits established in the By-laws (9 to 16), to set the number of Directors at sixteen (16).

- Recommendation 61: A significant percentage of the variable pay of the executive directors should be linked to awards of shares or financial instruments referenced to their value.

Given that this is a new recommendation of the Governance Code of listed companies and the compliance with which requires the approval of the Annual General Meeting, Repsol, S.A. is analysing this recommendation.

- Recommendation 62: Once the shares or share options or rights relating to the remuneration systems have been attributed, the directors cannot transfer ownership of a number of shares equivalent to twice his or her annual remuneration, or exercise options or rights until a term of at least three years has elapsed since their attribution. The above shall not apply to the shares that the director needs to dispose of, if applicable, to pay the costs relating to the purchase.

Given that this is a new recommendation of the Governance Code of listed companies and the compliance with which requires the approval of the Annual General Meeting, Repsol, S.A. is analysing this recommendation.

- United States

Passaic River / Newark Bay, United States, Lawsuit.

The events underlying this lawsuit related to the sale by Maxus Energy Corporation (“Maxus”) of its former chemicals subsidiary, Diamond Shamrock Chemical Company 97 (“Chemicals”) to Occidental Chemical Corporation (“OCC”). Maxus agreed to indemnify Occidental for certain contingencies relating to the business and activities of Chemicals prior to September 4, 1986. In 1995, YPF S.A. (“YPF”) acquired Maxus and subsequently (in 1999) Repsol S.A. acquired YPF.

In December 2005, the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (“DEP”) and the New Jersey Spill Compensation Fund (together, the “State of New Jersey”) sued Repsol YPF S.A. (today called Repsol, S.A., hereinafter, “Repsol”); YPF, YPF Holdings Inc. (“YPFH”), CLH Holdings (“CLHH”); Tierra Solutions, Inc. (“Tierra”); Maxus and OCC for the alleged contamination caused by the former Chemicals plant which allegedly contaminated the Passaic River, Newark Bay and other bodies of water and properties in the vicinity (the Passaic River and Newark Bay clean-up lawsuit). In August 2010, the scope of the suit was expanded to include YPF International, S.A. (“YPFI”), and Maxus International Energy Company (“MIEC”).

On September 26, 2012 OCC filed a “Second Amended Cross Claim” (the “Cross Claim”) against Repsol, YPF, Maxus (jointly, the “Defendants”), Tierra and CLHH.

Between June 2013 and August 2014, the Defendants, among other parties, signed a series of settlement agreements, without acknowledging liability, with the State of New Jersey under which the latter withdrew its cases against the former in exchange for certain payments.

The judge ruled on certain Motions to Dismiss presented by the Defendants in respect of the Cross Claim on January 29, 2015, dismissing, in full or in part, with prejudice, 10 of the 12 claims presented by OCC. The judge issued a new timeline for the proceedings on July 1, 2015, setting the hearing date for June 2016.

On November 27, 2015, the parties presented several Motions for Summary Judgment and on January 14, 2016, the Special Master issued recommendations on these Motions, admitting the motions submitted by Repsol in relation to its classification as alter ego to Maxus and dismissing OCC's Motion against Repsol's claim vis-a-vis OCC in respect of the $65 million paid pursuant to the agreement with New Jersey State.

These recommendations were appealed by OCC, Maxus and YPF on February 16, 2016 before the presiding judge who, in a hearing on April 5, 2016, decided to uphold all of the recommendations issued by the Special Master, thereby dismissing in full OCC's suit against Repsol. This decision can still be appealed before the Superior Court of New Jersey Appellate Division and OCC, YPF and Maxus have announced their intention to appeal.

20.9 Significant changes in the issuer’s financial or trading position

No significant changes in the financial or trading position of Repsol occurred from 31 December 2015, the date of the last published financial statements, except for the impact of low crude oil and gas prices, described in item 9.2.3 of this Registration Document.

The By-laws of Repsol, S.A. do not establish conditions that vary from those contained in the Spanish Corporation Act (LSC) for the amendment of corporate by-laws, except as provided in section 3 of article 22 (“Majorities”). In said section it is established that in special cases, both in first and second call, the favourable vote of 75% of the capital with voting rights will be required concurrent to the General Meeting for the valid adoption of resolutions on the following matters: (i) The amendment of articles 22 bis (“Related-party transactions”) and 44 bis (“Prohibition of competition”) of the By-laws; (ii) the authorisation of related-party transactions in the situations provided for in article 22 bis of the By-laws; (iii) the release of a Director from the non-compete obligation in compliance with the provisions of article 44 bis of the By-laws; and (iv) the amendment of section 3 of article 22 of the By-laws.

In this regard, following several amendments to the by-laws (General Meetings held on 31 May 2012, 28 March 2014 and 30 April 2015), article 22 (“Majorities”) of the By-laws includes in a single article, all the rules relating to the majorities necessary to adopt resolutions at the Meeting:

- General legal majority: Section 1 in Article 22, relating to the general rule for adopting resolutions that do not require reinforced quorums, includes, under the provisions of the Spanish Corporations Act (LSC), that the applicable majority by default is the simple majority.
- Qualified legal majority: Section 2 in Article 22 outlines the agreements that require approval by an absolute majority including those legally required, i.e., any amendment to the By-laws, including the increase or decrease of capital, issuance of debentures, the elimination or restriction of right of first refusal for new shares, the transformation, merger, spin-off, global transfer of assets and liabilities, transfer of the registered office abroad and the dissolution of the Company; and

- Statutory qualified majority: Section 3 in Article 22 states the cases of qualified majority, set at 75% of the voting capital present at the Meeting.

21.2.5 Description of the conditions governing the manner in which annual general meetings and extraordinary general meetings of the shareholders are called, including the conditions of admission

Call for the General Meeting

1. Ordinary or Extraordinary General Meetings of Repsol, S.A. will be announced by the Board of Directors by means of advertisement published in at least the following media: (i) in the Official Gazette of the Commercial Registry (BORME) or one of Spain's highest circulation newspapers ; (ii) in the website of the CNMV (www.cnmv.es); and (iii) in Repsol's website (www.repsol.com). There must be at least one month between the call and the planned date for holding the meeting, except in cases in which a different notice period is established, in which case it will be in accordance with this latter.

The announcement of the call for the General Meeting must contain the information required by law and shall in any event include the name of Repsol, S.A., the date, time and venue (within the municipal area of the registered office) of the meeting on first call, and all of the items included on the agenda, along with the post of the person or persons calling the meeting. The announcement shall also indicate the date and time at which the Annual General Meeting will be held on second call, where appropriate. A period of at least 24 hours must elapse between the first and second call. If the duly convened Annual General Meeting is not held on first call but no date for a second call was set in the announcement, the second call must be announced, subject to the same publicity requirements as the first call, within fifteen days of the date at which the Annual General Meeting was originally scheduled to be held and at least 10 days prior to the new date set for the meeting.

Likewise, the announcement shall state the date on which the shareholder must have the shares registered in his name to be able to attend and vote at the General Meeting, the place and form in which he may obtain the full text of the documents and resolution proposals and the corporate website on which the information will be available, notwithstanding the right of the shareholder to obtain from the Company, immediately and free-of-charge, the documents to be submitted for approval of the Meeting and the auditors' report.

The announcement must similarly contain clear and precise information on the steps that shareholders must follow to take part in and cast their vote at the General Meeting, including, in particular, the following aspects:

- (i) The right to request information, including items on the agenda and put forward motions, as well as the timeframe for exercising these rights. When Repsol, S.A.'s website states that shareholders can obtain more detailed information on such rights, the announcement may simply indicate the timeframe for exercising this right.
- (ii) The system for casting votes by proxy, with special mention of the forms that shareholders must use when delegating their vote and the channels that must be used in order for Repsol, S.A. to accept electronic notifications of proxies conferred.
- (iii) The procedures in place for casting votes remotely, whether by post or via electronic channels.

A copy of the announcement calling the meeting shall also be sent to the Stock Exchanges on which the shares are listed and shall be made available to the depositary entities of the shares to allow them to issue attendance cards, if applicable.

2. The Board of Directors is required to call for an extraordinary Annual General Meeting whenever shareholders owning at least 3% of the share capital request it to do so, expressing the items to be included on the agenda in their request. In such cases, the Board of Directors must call for the meeting to be held within two months of the date on which it was legally requested.

3. Shareholders representing at least 5% of the share capital may request that a supplement to the announcement for a General Shareholders' Meeting be published containing one or more additional items for inclusion on the agenda, provided such shareholders provide justifiable reasons for adding the new items or, where applicable, for adding new motions. This right may be exercised subject to due notice accrediting ownership of the aforementioned percentage of the share capital. Notice must be received at the registered address of the Company within five days of publication of the announcement. The supplement to the announcement must be published at least 15 days ahead of the scheduled date for the General Shareholders' Meeting.
4. In addition to the legal and statutory requirements, Repsol, S.A. will publish all proposals to be put to the shareholders by the Board of Directors in relation to the items included on the Agenda on its corporate website as from the date of publication of the announcement of the Annual General Meeting. When the proposals concern the appointment of directors, the text published shall include the information required by the Law. An exception may be made in those cases where the Board considers that it would not be justified to publish proposals and no legal or statutory requirement exists to make the same known to the shareholders as from the date of the call for the meeting.

Right of attendance and voting at the General Meeting

1. Shareholders owning any number of shares may attend the General Meeting providing the shares are duly entered in the pertinent share register at least 5 days prior to the date of the meeting and the shareholder has been issued with an attendance card, which shall be issued on a registered basis by the participants in the organisation that manages said accounting register or directly by the Company itself.
2. The board may, provided it so states in each notice of call, swap the attendance cards issued for each shareholder for other standard attendance registration documents issued by the company to facilitate drawing-up of the attendance list, exercise of the voting right and other shareholders' rights.

Registration of attendance cards shall commence two hours before the scheduled start time of the General Shareholders' Meeting.

3. Shareholders may delegate their vote on proposals concerning items included on the agenda for any class of General Shareholders' Meeting, or otherwise cast their vote by post, electronically or by any other remote communication system, provided the identity of the individual casting the vote is duly assured. Shareholders voting remotely shall be treated as present for the purposes of convening the General Meeting.

The Board of Directors may establish the most appropriate procedure for delegating votes and for remote voting at each General Meeting, depending on the legislation prevailing from time to time and the state of the art. This procedure must be described in detail in the announcement of the Meeting.

21.2.7 Provisions of the by-laws or internal regulations, if any, governing the ownership threshold above which shareholder ownership must be disclosed

The By-laws and internal regulations of Repsol, S.A. do not establish any threshold above which shareholder ownership must be disclosed.

21.2.8 Provisions of the by-laws or internal regulations governing changes in the capital, where such conditions are more stringent than is required by law

There is no provision in the By-laws of Repsol, S.A. or its internal regulations that, regarding changes in capital, establishes more rigorous conditions than those established by law.

However, as shown in section A-10 of the Annual Report on Corporate Governance of Repsol, S.A. for 2015, Spanish legislation establishes certain limitations and obligations of notification in certain acquisitions of holdings in the capital of energy firms, as well as limitations on exercising the right to vote in certain situations, which are summarised below.

- Law 3/2013, of 4 June, on the creation of the National Markets and Competition Commission establishes a control procedure on certain business transactions in the energy sector, including the taking of holdings in companies that perform certain activities relating to liquid hydrocarbons or that are holders of strategic assets in the energy sector (oil refineries, pipelines and petroleum product storage). Specifically, in the case of acquisition of holdings in a percentage of company share capital of an energy company affected by this law, which grants a significant influence on the management of that company, the acquirer shall be obliged to provide notification of the transaction to the National Markets and Competition Commission (“CNMC”), which, if the acquirer is not a European Union or European Economic Area (EEA) national and it is deemed that a real and sufficiently serious threat exists of risks arising for the guarantee of supply of hydrocarbons, may establish conditions relating to the running of the business activity of the affected companies or the acquirer.
- Royal Decree-Law 6/2000, of 23 June, regarding Urgent Measures for the Intensification of Competition on Goods and Services Markets establishes certain limitations to exercising the right to vote in more than one main operator in the same market or sector. Among others, fuel production and distribution production and supply of liquefied petroleum gases and production and supply of natural gas markets are listed; the term main operator meaning the companies that have the five greatest market shares in the market in question. Said limitations are as follows:
 - Individuals or legal entities who directly or indirectly hold more than 3% of the share capital or voting rights of two or more main operators on the same market may not exercise the voting rights above said percentage in more than one of said companies.
 - A main operator may not exercise voting rights in a holding greater than 3% of share capital of another main operator on the same market.

This prohibitions shall not apply when they are parent companies that are considered main operators in relation to their subsidiary companies, which are also main operators, providing that said structure is imposed by court order or is the result of a mere distribution of securities or assets between companies in the same group.

As a regulatory authority of the energy market, the CNMC may authorise the exercising of voting rights that are above the limit, providing that this does not foster the exchange of strategic information or involve risks of coordination in its strategic actions.
